THE 7TH UNITED STATES ARMY JOINT MULTINATIONAL TRAINING COMMAND

JMTC

"The Joint Multinational Training Command (JMTC) is the linchpin to achieving these vital theater objectives, and meeting our comprehensive security cooperation mission. JMTC is a national strategic asset, providing world-class training and support that enables a broad range of multinational Soldier training events ensuring U.S. and partner nation forces are well-prepared for ISAF operations and future global contingencies."

Admiral James G. Stavridis
Commander, U.S. European Command and NATO Supreme Allied Commander Europe

"Everything is about relationships. It's about establishing strong relationships with our partner Armies in Europe. It's outreach to new partners, specifically those in the old Eastern Bloc that are now working very closely with us. It gives us some familiarity. It gives us the capability to work with them... It creates a basic understanding of our culture and our military culture and how we want to interact as we move forward."

Gen. Raymond T. Odierno
Chief of Staff of the United States Army

The JMTC is one-of-a-kind.

The JMTC is the U.S. Army's only training command to provide units with live-fire gunnery, combat maneuver training, simulations, institutional training schools and home-station training support in a single command in Europe.

The JMTC's training opportunities are limitless; available anywhere and anytime.

The JMTC combines vast capabilities and the convenience of home-station training, or training in the combat training center environment. In fact, JMTC exports training personnel, devices and tools anywhere around the world, and provides centralized access to live, virtual, constructive and gaming resources that help individual units and Soldiers to meet their training objectives. The JMTC creates interoperability among U.S. and multinational forces.

The JMTC is based among allies and partners in Europe.

The JMTC provides U.S. and international Soldiers an opportunity to train in a sophisticated, complex and real-time battle environment at various locations throughout Europe.

The JMTC replicates the missions of today and tomorrow.

At JMTC, units encounter multi-cultural civilians on the battlefield, realistic communication systems and networks, a seasoned professional battle-hardened opposing force and allied forces, which replicates the realities of today's complex operating environment. The JMTC trains individual Soldiers, up to the three-star headquarters staff, allowing partnership, collaboration at all levels. Developing efficient and effective communication and personal relationships is a recognized hallmark of JMTC training.
